Alabama Cotton Relief Program Gets Underway

COMMITTEE FOR HANDLING FUND IS NAMED BY WELLS

Conference Set For Tuesday To Finish Organization

$11,000,000 TO BE AVAILABLE

Details of Operation To Be Decided On Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The members of the Alabama cotton finance corporation committee were announced today by Oscar Wells, who was authorized at the recent meeting of bankers, industrial leaders and representatives of the farming interests to name the committee. They are:

A. M. Baldwin, of Montgomery, president of First National bank of that city; D. P. Bestor, president of the First National Bank of Mobile; Sam C. King, vice president of the Bank of Ensley and president of the Alabama Bankers Association; Donald Comer, of Birmingham, vice president of the Avondale Mills, and Oscar Wells, president of the First National bank of Birmingham, who was made a member of the committee in a resolution adopted at the first meeting.

A meeting has been called by Mr. Wells for Tuesday morning in the directors room of the First National bank here. Immediately after this meeting is held, the committee will be ready to receive applications for loans. Mr. Wells announced today. The entire $11,000,000 needed to secure an additional $10,000,000 from the federal farm loan board, which will be needed to carry out the plan adopted at the meeting on October 25, to hold 300,000 bales of cotton off the market for a period of 18 months, is in sight and will be forthcoming as rapidly as needed, Mr. Wells stated.

Within two working days after the plans were outlined at the first meeting, Mr. Wells was able to send a wire to Eugene Meyer, representative of President Coolidge on the cotton committee, announcing that Alabama had its million dollars in sight.

Headquarters of the corporation of Alabama probably will be located in Birmingham but the extent of the organization necessary to carry on the work depends on future developments. It is not known just how much cotton will be available, nor is it known to what extent applications for these loans will be made.

The details of the operation of the corporation will be decided at the first meeting of the committee tomorrow. Three subscriptions have been for $100,000 each, these being the largest received. They were made by the Alabama Power company, the Kaul lumber company and the Avondale Mills.

BIDS ASKED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Commercial aviation interests were invited today by the postoffice department to submit by January 15 next bids for operation of the New York-San Francisco transcontinental air mail service and the New York-Chicago overnight air mail.

BUY AT HOME

Albany-Decatur merchants were never better prepared than at this season to fill the wants of the holidays, now little more than 30 days away. Albany-Decatur merchants have bought wisely, they will sell wisely to you, giving good values in exchange for fair prices. They have bought to suit the taste of the best and the pocketbook of the thrifty.

ELEANOR'S CONFIDANTE REVEALS LOVE AFFAIRS

MRS. BARNHARDT SAYS HER SISTER ADMITTED STORY

Cared More For The Rector Than For Her Husband

DIDN'T CARE IF PUBLIC KNEW

The Name of Another Admirer of Hall Is Drawn Into Case

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Elsie Barnhardt, sister of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, said on the witness stand today that her sister told her that she loved Mr. Hall's little finger more than her husband's whole body.

Testifying as a state's witness at the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, charged with Mrs. Hall's murder, Mrs. Barnhardt said that Mrs. Mills had taken her into her confidence in telling of her love for the rector of the church where Mrs. Mills was a member of the choir.

"Eleanor told me she loved Mr. Hall's little finger more than Jim's whole body," she said. "Jim" is James Mills, husband of the slain woman.

Later, Mrs. Barnhardt added, her sister repeated the statement in the presence of Mills and her two children, Charlotte and Daniel. "She said it several times," Mrs. Barnhardt testified.

Her sister met her warning that her friendship with the minister was unwise, with the reply: "I don't care who knows I love Mr. Hall," said the witness. The witness told off "the last bench in Bueclough park" as a place her sister told of meeting Mr. Hall, "and helping him with his sermons."

"Somewhere on Easton avenue" was another meeting place, she said, and another was in New York. Prosecutor Simpson drew from the witness a statement that Mrs. Mills had told her that Mrs. Minna Clark, a member of the minister's church, "liked Dr. Hall too and was very jealous of Eleanor because she was taking so much of his attention."

The two women had been friendly, but their friendship was stopped because of this jealousy, Mrs. Barnhardt testified she had been told by her sister. In earlier testimony the state had sought to establish that Mrs. Minna Clark "spied on the minister" and Mrs. Mills and contended that she carried to Mrs. Hall stories of their love affair.

Mrs. Barnhardt said that Mrs. Mills told her she planned to go to Japan with Mr. Hall as soon as Charlotte had finished school.

MRS. JANE GIBSON EXPECTED TO TELL STORY WEDNESDAY

Key Witness May Be Able To Testify From Stretcher

STATE'S CASE IS NEAR ITS END

Pig Woman's life now Despaired of By Physicians

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The prosecution in the Hall-Mills murder trial plans to have Mrs. Jane Gibson, its key witness, brought into court Wednesday on a stretcher to give what may be death-bed testimony.

The plan, however, are endangered by the possible necessity for an emergency operation to prolong, for a short time the life of the only person known to claim to have seen the slaying four years ago of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

An ailment that caused Mrs. Gibson to collapse while attending court ten days ago, now is diagnosed as kidney stones. Her condition was reported to have improved after a blood transfusion Friday, but Dr. Charles Kelly, one of the physicians attending her, holds that this apparent improvement is only a natural phase of the disease and has not great significance, as it may be reversed very suddenly.

Mrs. Gibson's doctors declare that the transfusion was made to relieve an anemic condition. In the event a sudden turn for the worse soon, Dr. Kelly believes an operation that is attended by a high ratio of fatalities would be necessary. He considers her health to be as good now as it ever will be and feels that she probably has only a short time to live, regardless of the operation.

Mrs. Gibson was taken to the Somerville hospital after her collapse. When physicians there declared he would be unable to testify for several weeks, special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson had her removed, over their protests, to a Jersey City hospital, where she now is.

Physicians there, however, confirmed the opinion of Somerville

MORGAN CITIZENS EAGERLY AWAITING REBUILDING PLANS

Board of Revenue Is Expected To Act at Early Date

REVENUE CAN BE PROVIDED

Law Has a Clause To Take Care of Such Emergencies

Morgan county citizens are deeply interested in the plans which the board of revenue members are expected to make public soon for providing the county with a courthouse to replace the one burned early Friday.

It is understood that the total insurance carried on the structure approximated $40,000. This sum, it is obvious, would not rebuild a courthouse the size even of the one burned. It was pointed out, however, that the counties are permitted under law, to assess a tax of two and a half miles for ten years for such purposes and it is believed the Morgan county board will avail itself of this means of revenue to raise all or a large part of the cost of the new structure.

Citizens were hopeful that the board would realize the need for a courthouse much larger than the one destroyed by fire. Space in that building, which had been erected in 1892, already was becoming badly cramped.

Growth of the county for the next 34-year period will be very much greater than it was for the time served by the old courthouse. In such event, a building large enough to house the county's records now would be far too small in a comparatively short time and would necessitate the expenditure of perhaps large sum to remedy the condition.

Many citizens, from all over the county, in discussing the prospects for a new courthouse, have urged that the county take steps to acquire all of the block on which the burned structure stood and that the new building be erected with the jail on top of the courthouse. This building plan has been adopted in many progressive cities and counties and permits a much more convenient arrangement for court sessions, as well as providing a much safer place for the confinement of prisoners.

Physicians until after the transfusion, when they said it might be possible for her to testify early this week.

KIWANIS SHOW ONE NIGHT ONLY

Steering Board Is Busy With Plan For Minstrel

The minstrel show, planned by the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club, for the second activity of the year to raise funds for charity purposes, will be presented one night only, at the night of December 16 at Princess theater.

This decision was reached by the steering committee, appointed for handling the affairs and details connected with the annual show. John Patterson, H. L. Peter, A. A. Jones, Frank Cook, L. R. Nash and M. R. Rankin are members of the committee.

Mr. Rankin, one of the directors of the minstrel, asked today that all local talent get in touch with him. He explained that there is much latent material here that the directors do not have knowledge of and that the club wants to make the show the very best in years. Rehearsal dates and other plans will be made immediately.

FLAG AND BIBLE GIVEN TO SCHOOL

Members of Jr. Order Stage Ceremonies In Priceville

Some twenty-five or thirty members of the Junior Order of Albany-Decatur went to Priceville Sunday where a Flag and Bible were presented to the school at that place.

Judge F. M. Hamilton presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Hon. Melvin Hutson was the first speaker. In a very impressive address he presented the flag which was received by Prof. Hamilton, principal of the school.

A basket dinner was then served to all present, after which the members and friends again assembled in the school building and listened to a splendid sermon by Rev. E. Floyd Olive in which he presented the Bible. Rev. Ben Collier received it in an impressive address. America was sung in a beautiful manner by the children of the school. Music was furnished by the Albany-Decatur Grotto band.

MORGAN IS PUSHED IN SEVENTH PLACE

Madison County Is Leader With Over 47,000 Bales

Morgan county has been pushed into seventh place in the state cotton standing, according to reports revealed today by the department of commerce. Madison county continues to be the leader in the entire state with an immense yield of 47,529 bales gained prior to November 1.

Relinquishing sixth place Morgan county still has reached beyond 30,000 bales. Morgan report shows 30,021. Other leading counties are: Madison 47,529, Cullman 33,666, DeKalb 31,234, Elmore 32,629, Limestone 34,000, and Marshall with 37,176. The entire state had gained 1,128,035, compared with 1,175,957 to November 1, 1925.

Indications in Morgan county are that the yield will go past 40,000 bales this year, the largest crop in the history of the county. Weather conditions will have a great deal to do with attaining that total, but considerable ginning still is in progress. The 1925 crop stood at 37,000 bales.

Indian Woman, With $1200 Per Day, Is Millionaire In Single Year

By International News Service CUSHING, Okla., Nov. 15.—Jackson Barnett, Creek Indian of Muskogee, long reputed as the richest Indian in the country, as a result of oil royalties, now must take a back seat.

Mrs. Esther Jefferson, of Cushing, restricted member of the Sac and Fox tribe, now holds the honor. But, up until about a year ago, Esther was classed among the poorest. She had an allotment of 140 acres, but the ground was so bare "it wouldn't even raise good fish worm," she said. Her allowance of $1,000 a year from the United States government was the only sustenance on which Esther and her husband and two daughters could depend.

Now, Esther has an income of more than $1,200 a day, with several wells under the drill, promising to add to the flow of money into the Jefferson household.

The $1,200 a day has been steady since early last spring, when the first well was brought in on her barren little farm, until now, with restrictions of the Shawnee Indian agent requiring her to spend only a small part of her income, Esther has amassed a fortune variously estimated between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000, including several royalty bonuses, and with the money still coming in.

Wife And Sister Shot By Keeline

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Nov. 15.—(AP)—John Keeline today shot and killed his wife and probably fatally wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Anderson. He then committed suicide. The shooting occurred at the Keeline home.

Keeline was a member of one of the oldest and best known families in this city. He was known as a financier and sportsman and, at one time, was connected with the Council Bluffs Savings Bank, of which he was a stockholder.

Bank Robbed By Four Masked Men

REARDAN, Wash., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Four masked men held up three employees and a customer of the Farmers State Bank here today with pistols and escaped with loot estimated at $15,000 to $20,000. A sheriff's posse was believed to have them surrounded in a field.

PRISONERS MADE DASH FROM JAIL IN TAXI, IS BELIEF

Pink Gargus Choked and Gagged By Pair of Blacks

WOMEN THOUGHT TO HAVE AIDED

Deputy Poole Was Away at Time of The Break

Choking Pink Gargus, jailer, with a rope fashioned from strips of blankets obtaining the keys which led to freedom, Dave Bell and Willie Gray, negroes, today are at liberty, following the execution of a carefully planned jail-break Sunday near noon at the Morgan county jail. Two negro women, one a cook at the jail, were with the escapes.

Calling to the jailer "Come here a minute," Bell and Gray are declared to have bound a blanket rope about the throat and head of Pink Gargus and pulled him up to the cell bars. The negro women then went into his pockets and obtained a key to his room where the jail keys were kept. The road to freedom was then made easy, the negro women unlocking the cell doors, the four escaping in a taxi.

News of the break was soon made known by Dave Williams, negro, who is held on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Williams, it is said fought the assailants of Gargus, but was no match for them. He then unbound the jailer and notified Sheriff C. E. Poole of the delivery. Five other prisoners in the jail made no attempt to escape.

According to the story told today Williams heard the plotting of the escape Saturday night, but chose to await developments.

Deputy Is Away

Deputy Ben Poole in company with several others had planned a Sunday morning outing and would not return to the jail until past the noon hour. Deputy Poole expressed the belief today that his plans had been overheard by Maude Simpson, negro cook, who made the movements of the officer known to the two prisoners. Deputy Poole declared that Bell, Gray, the Simpson woman and Eva Simpson left the jail in a taxi. Deputy Poole today offered $50 reward for the capture of Bell.

The officer declared that Maude Simpson, who works as a cook at the jail, likewise aids in cleaning the interior of the jail and that she undoubtedly had aided in the conspiracy.

Return to Gargus

After going to Gargus room and obtaining the keys to the jail the two negroes are understood to have returned to their victim and to have taken a watch valued at $25 and about five dollars in cash from his pockets. They then placed Gargus in safety, filling blankets and mattresses upon him.

Williams, who had had a shirt torn from his back in the battle, then loosed the unfortunate jailer. John A. Thomason, Jr., seems to have been the only person in the jail, other than the prisoners, at the time of the break. Mr. Thomason had gone to the jail to find Eva Simpson who was employed at his home as a cook at odd times. Gargus is declared to have stated he heard Mr. Thomason call, but was unable to answer him. Mr. Thomason left the jail without knowledge of the break.

Deputy Ben Poole today asked that anyone who had knowledge of the whereabouts of the escapes get in touch with officers.

MEN'S ACTIVITY TO BE STRESSED

Meeting Is Planned In December By Presbyterians

Increasing the activities of the men of Westminster Presbyterian church will be the main object of a banquet and meeting called December 7 at which time Rev. George P. Horst, St. Louis, general secretary of men's work, will be a principal speaker.

Realizing the need for increased activities in the church circles, Rev. Earnest N. Hart has appointed J. I. Chrissinger, M. R. Rankin, Lamar Penney and J. J. Solomon as a committee to complete plans for the December gathering. The appointments were announced Sunday.

Reverend Horst will outline men's activities in other Presbyterian churches.

Presbyterian leaders today declared that Sunday witnessed another splendid day of religious activity and influence at the church. Large congregations heard Rev. Hart in pleasing sermons.

ENGINEERS FAVOR PAYMENT OF TAX

Competent Man Is One of Needs In Road System

Two engineers, both familiar with road conditions in Morgan county are heartily in favor of the plan for changes in Morgan county road laws. Particularly are they interested in the change suggested with regard to the payment of a nominal road tax, rather than the ten day working law which has prevailed in the past.

The money from such a tax, paid in the rural sections, could be used by the county for the employment of a competent man who would act as overseer and engineer. The salary of that man would be determined largely by his ability.

Both men were of the opinion that the change would bring about a favorable result in Morgan county where county road laws have not been enforced in some years, owing to various technicalities in the law allowing the worker to escape the penalty.

BACK FROM CAPITAL

Lewis Brown has returned from Montgomery where he was the week-end guest of his brother, Paul Brown, and an attendant at the Alabama-Florida football game. Mr. Brown paid high tribute to the Alabama team and the work of Raymond Pepper, local player, who entered the contest as a substitute in the last half.

TEMPORARY OFFICE IS OPENED TODAY

Through the courtesy of the J. P. Thomas Abstract company, parts of the work of the probate judge's office will be done in the Thomas building, across the street from the burned courthouse. This work will include the handling of papers filed for record, issuing of hunters and marriage licenses.

The change of the Kiwanis club to meetings in the Masonic Hall, Albany, is only temporary, it was explained today. The meeting last week and the coming gathering had additions of numbers of guests and the regular meeting point at the Y. M. C. A. is hardly large enough to accommodate the additional numbers. Regular meetings will be continued at the "Y."

Football Stars Taken By Raiders

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Roy Manderly, star end, and John "Jug" Brown, backfield star of the University of Nebraska football team, were arrested early today, together with six other students in a raid on what the police said was a poker game.

Manderly is a special police officer, whose duty it is to enforce the city curfew laws.

CITY HAS RIGHT TO IMPOSE GAS TAX

Circuit Court Holds In Favor of Selma in a Test Suit

SELMA, Ala., Nov. 15.—(AP) The city of Selma has a right to impose a tax on gasoline which is concentrated in the municipality and distributed outside the corporate limits, but within the police jurisdiction, according to a decision announced today in the circuit court of Dallas county by Judge H. P. Reese.

The case is of state-wide interest as it affects a number of incorporated towns and cities. The council of Selma adopted an ordinance levying a one-cent tax on gasoline sold or distributed from Selma to dealers and filling stations located outside of the city limits, and the Standard Oil company resisted the tax and went into court to test its constitutionality. The case will be appealed to the state supreme court for final settlement.

BROWNING SUITS ARE POSTPONED

Counsel For Peaches Asks More Time To Prepare His Case

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The suit and counter-suit for separation between Francis (Peaches) Browning and Edward W. Browning, wealthy mid-Western New York realtor, which was originally set for December 3 at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., probably will not begin until the middle of January.

The request of Mrs. Browning's counsel, Henry Epstein, for more time to prepare his case was granted by Supreme Court Justice Morschauer today.

The justice reserved decision on Mrs. Browning's application for $4,000 a month alimony and $25,000 for counsel. Mrs. Browning's attorney declared that Browning's suit, charging her with cruelty and abandonment would be answered by admitting abandonment, but that she would counter with assertion it was justified.

"From the marriage," said Epstein, "to the time she left six months later, Mr. Browning pursued a course of conduct which rendered life with him, from a physical standpoint, impossible and made life with him also impossible from a moral standpoint."

RELIGION, NOT LIQUOR, IS AID TO SICK MAN, DR. MAYO, FAMOUS SURGEON, DECLARES

The theory that liquor has a place in the sick room was exploded recently by William J. Mayo, one of the foremost medical authorities in the world. Dr. Mayo made this assertion in an interview to the Quincy Herald-Whig, Quincy, Illinois, newspaper.

Religion, not booze, is what a sick man needs.

A Bible is a far better stimulant than a bottle.

Faith will heal where Bourbon fails.

Whisky has no place in the sick room. This is the dictum of Dr. William J. Mayo, one of the foremost medical authorities in the world, who was Quincy's honored guest recently. In no way a fanatic, Dr. Mayo did not cry his opinion from the housetops but in an interview made clear his belief.

"Alcohol has no place in medicine," he said, "it is a narcotic, not a stimulant." Admitting that he did not know whether or not the United States would be better off with a system of governmental control of liquor, Dr. Mayo was positive that the coming generation will benefit from the Volstead act.

Wasn't Ardent Dry "I wasn't an ardent prohibitionist to start with, yet I was convinced that the bars and saloons had to go," he continued.

"That alcohol has no place in medicine was proved in France, during the war. The American troops received no ration and they got along very well without it."

"Whatever may happen to us as the result of the Volstead act, I am convinced that the next generation in the United States will be better off for that piece of legislation."

Denying that liquor is beneficial in the sick room, Dr. Mayo was equally positive that religion is a wonderful helper in the hospital. "When we estimate in the value of mental attitude in medicine," he said, "we always find that the great comfort of the afflicted is religion. In my work in the hospitals

I see, day by day, the enormous good that the workers in the various churches do in carrying to the patients cheer which is based on the life of Christ.

"It would be well if the churches gave more time to endeavor of this kind and less to an attempt to establish man-made precepts based on controversial theological opinion. Controversies in religion carry little mental assurance. Remember the beautiful twenty-third psalm with its divine message of comfort."

Snake Bites No Aid

Faced with these facts the chap with a consuming thirst is in a difficult predicament. This statement isn't meant to be funny, either. With the tightening of liquor law enforcement and a great doctor declaring that alcohol is no help to the suffering, how can a "sick man" get the long sought panacea for his malady? It won't do any good to keep a pet snake, for in deciding that whisky is a narcotic, not a stimulant in illness, the ancient snake bite cure myth is exploded.

A kindly, considerate scientist, Dr. Mayo greets humanity on a level and in talking to a layman he never takes a professional slant. "I can never understand why a man tries to 'high hat' his company," he said. "I guess that I have too much humor to ever try it."

If a man asked you what is the greatest need in business you'd tell him money. If he asked you the greatest need in keeping records you'd tell him second sheets. Buy second sheets at the Daily.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of November 15, 1914.

November 15, 1914, falling on Sunday, there was no issue of the Daily of that date.

Cotton, cotton everywhere, but not a bale for sale, appears to be the present-day slogan of Southern farmers.

Birmingham need not try to emulate Chicago. The Illinois metropolis is too far ahead in crime for any other section to catch up, unless Herrin, by an extra sport, might have an outside chance.

ILLINOI SHOULD COME SOUTH FOR THE WINTER.

Illinois and her troubles certainly has no direct bearing on Albany-Decatur, neither had the American earthquake for that matter, but it is interesting from the morbid standpoint just to see what in the world is happening in Illinois.

Queen Marie arrived in Chicago—there was a riot. Governor Small asked Saturday that troop be sent to Williamson county. "Bloody Williamson." Gang warfare had broken out in Williamson and a rival gang camp was being built by airplane. That last feature should interest Arthur Brisbane. Only a few days ago, and perhaps tomorrow, machine guns sputtered death on the streets of Chicago. In the vernacular of the streets other states say to Illinois "What kind of a state are you anyway?"

Illini could have very easily avoided most of this winter disturbance had they come South, even a duck, generally accredited with having a low-ebb intelligence, flies South for the winter. Illini would have been very welcome in the states where the sun shines most of the year, had they taken double precaution to leave their playmates at home.

That time an official was killed in Atlanta and Chicago gunmen were supposed to have been mixed in the unfortunate affair almost gave the state of Georgia heart failure.

Yes, we would like to have the Illini as guests for the winter, but there must be a disarmament conference before transportation is purchased.

CHRISTMAS WILL RIDE IN ON WAVE OF PROSPERITY.

The report of the United States treasury shows an unusually rosy condition in the United States, according to the opinion voiced by business leaders. They likewise attach Christmas trade significance to the general condition of prosperity and plenty.

"With the gigantic total of nearly fifty billion dollars in all banks, America's Christmas buying season promises to be the most expensive in the history of business, and financial investigations by the treasury, results of which were made public today, indicated an unprecedented condition of prosperity upon which the country will enter the new year," that is the substance of a story sent over the wires of the International News Service.

That would indicate that Christmas buying will be heavier in all sections.

Talking with a merchant Saturday night the opinion was voiced that business here this year would not be over a long period of time, but that the business in the holiday season would be greater than usual.

The Twin Cities always enjoy an immense Christmas business and merchants are preparing daily to take care of the wants of the people. No better place to trade can be found than right here at home where the merchants are not only glad to sell their merchandise, but are willing to combine service, satisfaction, favors, values and prices, in making the season's buying a pleasure for the individual.

BRISBANE MISSES FIRE ON HIS PROHIBITION GUESS.

Arthur Brisbane, highest paid editorial writer, fanatic on agro defense, has struck a knot. Mr. Brisbane declares that the South votes the dry ticket that the prohibition laws might be forced on the black man. Just what situation has brought that deduction from Mr. Brisbane is beyond the minds of southern observers and writers.

The South has voted the dry ticket for the South believes in prohibition, the South has seen the advantages of the Volstead act, it has seen school enrollments increased, bank accounts increased, communities turn their eyes toward civic building, men placed on a more equal footing, square meals all around, automobiles, homes, luxuries. These things have taken the place of the corner saloon. Unfortunately the prohibition laws are broken, broken by every class of people. Society smiles at the pocket flask and the charred keg, but regardless of what has been said to the contrary whiskey is now a matter of one drink rather than one drunk. The gutter and the curbstone are now attended by the street sweeper, not by any number of the citizenship who have imbibed too freely.

The white race in the South is effected to as great an extent as the black. There is no radical question entering into the matter of voting dry, south of the imagined Mason-Dixon line.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA MOVES ON TO ANOTHER TITLE.

The University of Alabama football representatives have moved another notch toward a third successive Southern Intercollegiate Conference Title. That news is comforting to the followers of the Crimson and the whole state of Alabama, that news is valuable.

The University of Alabama traveled to the Pacific Coast last year to let the western half of the United States know that from out of Alabama had come stalwart sons of the Southland, acclaiming Dixie gridiron lore as good and better than the brands of football played on other gridirons. It was almost the first triumph for the Southland in vanquishing eastern and western football, something that yet remains entirely out of the ordinary. Years later there will be no football classification, there will be Notre Dames of the South as well as the east. Inter-sectional battles will not cause so much attention by virtue of the location of the teams, but rather through the knowledge that the team from the South is as strong as the team from the east or west and equally as well coached.

The state of Alabama rises again to acclaim Wallace Wade, he yet has Georgia to wade through. He must go through this last game for the sake of the Crimson Tide, for the sake of the state of Alabama. The people of the United States will have still another reason to cast their eyes upon the state of Alabama as rapidly becoming a leader.

THREE CITIES PLAN A MERGER IN DEFINITE MOVEMENT.

Not sensational, lacking the material of a good news story, without the eternal triangle phase, but one of the happiest, best, and interesting stories of the year.

The above might be a criticism of a recent movie, but it isn't, it is a criticism of a definite movement in Gadsden, Attalla and Alabama City to merge into one city—a city of 40,000 inhabitants, a north Alabama metropolis.

That is encouraging to Albany-Decatur, encouraging to the Tri-Cities, we know our needs but we have not yet had the chance to proclaim a similar news story, it's going to happen, however.

Will you look at this north Alabama picture? Alabama City, Attalla and Gadsden—40,000 inhabitants. Florence, Sheffield, Tuscumbia—30,000 inhabitants. Anniston—20,000 to 25,000. Huntsville—20,000 to 25,000. Albany-Decatur—15,000 to 20,000 and with the logical location for the shipping and trading center of the entire circle. That picture exceeds any dream with all its imaginative art.

That picture is absolutely true, there is no guess work, there is no speculation, that is what is here now.

Albany-Decatur and the remaining north Alabama cities congratulate the Gadsden section upon efforts to merge, knowing full well the advantages and planning to follow suit within a short while.

The people of Albany-Decatur have but to pause for a moment to get the actual picture of their own worth, pause to take stock of the local situation. The picture from the point of an idealist can be called beautiful, from the point of view of the materialist that that same picture is practical.

Here is Huntsville to the east, one of the finest growing cities in an excellent section, rail facilities leading to Albany-Decatur, roadways leading to Albany-Decatur, progressive people pulling for Huntsville, for Albany-Decatur, for north Alabama. A substantial giant of industry and agriculture, the capital of Madison county.

To the west there are the Tri-Cities, cities with a future known to the United States and aside from the advantage in having Muscle Shoals as a future prospect those cities already have stepped beyond the boundaries of provincialism and are going on in their stride towards the goal of the western enterprise to the state of Alabama. Those cities are in City feeders from the west.

In the general direction to the southward there is Anniston, known to the world now as the Model City, recognized as one of the very best cities with a class of people who do not know other than progress. People who take hold of civic propositions with the will to put those proposals across, people who do not halt at the mention of hundreds of thousands of dollars, when needed for placing additional industrial output to the credit of the state of Alabama. A city of people who caught the vision of the future Alabama some years ago and began the necessary preparation. Anniston is a city ahead of the other north Alabama cities at the present and the Twin Cities congratulate Anniston upon a splendid progressive growth.

Now comes Gadsden, another leader. Rather we should speak of the three cities, Gadsden, Attalla and Alabama City, but here we no longer speak of two points, the hyphenated symbol 'Albany-Decatur' has been temporary for several years now and there are few on the outside who do not recognize these cities by that name. Gadsden has progressed and is progressing, Gadsden will step further along with the merger idea brought to a successful conclusion. There is greater strength in three fighting for one cause than in three fighting for the same cause, but with three distinct civic inspirations. Gadsden is a fine city.

This is no time for casting bouquets, but any mind which had never fashioned thoughts on paper would gain the same inspiration at the news of the proposed Gadsden merger. What but an inspiration could be felt at gazing upon the industrial and agricultural future of north Alabama?

Coming to the picture of Albany-Decatur, we took the spotlight some years ago when we became recognized as the logical center for a great city. Only recently have we seized upon that birthright of central trading possession, only recently have we tired of guessing at the future and started the addition of facts and figures, combining the two into a sum of reasons why Albany-Decatur should measure to the standard expected. Other north Alabama cities do not deny that birthright to us, they recognize the location of Albany-Decatur, almost equidistant between Memphis-Chattanooga and Birmingham-Nashville, the gateway to North Alabama, a city in which more progress has been noted in the past two years than in all the years of previous existence.

You may say, "Well, what else could he say, he's a resident of Albany-Decatur, you could hardly expect him to do other than talk the advantages of his cities, whether those advantages are present or not?" The man who makes that sort of criticism is guilty of poor guessing. The man who refuses to see a similar picture is blind to facilities for expansion. He refuses to see because he does not want to see, not because he knows that such a relationship between Albany-Decatur and fine sister cities does not exist.

Any citizen can be inspired who engages in thought of the north Alabama expansion picture. Few weeks pass that one of the five locations spoken of do not come forward with an announcement of a progressive move, an industrial location, a successful curb market, establishments of city parks, traffic systems, development projects, river bridges. One could continue down the list of improvements and never come to an ending. The north Alabama picture is complete, it remains for the citizens of these five cities to strive even with greater enthusiasm than before, this opportunity must not be thrown aside and it will not be thrown aside. There is not a citizen in one of these five municipalities who has not grasped the situation, who has not seen. Some few have said they cannot see, but they are in the smallest minority, they are afraid to see, they will not acknowledge.

The Albany-Decatur location hopes that the Gadsden-Alabama City-Attalla practical dream comes true, it is another feather in the civic cap of those cities, another gigantic reason for bringing additional industries and more good people into the north Alabama territory.

Plain Facts About Investments

FOREIGN BONDS

By W. S. COUSINS, International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK.—The activity and buoyancy of the European government bonds in the listed bond market in the last two or three weeks has again placed the foreign bond selection on the front page, as related to investment matters. The rapid absorption of $50,000,000 of new Belgian Government 7 per cent and their prompt advance from their offering price of 94 to 98 1-2 in the third day of competitive trading, was perhaps the factor which stimulated the rush to buy the European government bonds at the highest price range of the year to date.

Latest reports from the other side are to the effect that Germany would like to borrow a large sum of money from American investors, on the security of the bonds issued under the Dawes Reparation Plan on the German railroad system. With the proceeds of these loans Germany would make advance payments to France, receiving as an immediate benefit the withdrawal of French soldiers from strategic points in German territory. Unless the approval of the United States government is obtained, the plan to sell $2,500,000,000 German railway bonds must be abandoned.

But Uncle Sam says, "No bonds of this type, please, until certain details have been arranged. There is a little matter of four or five billion dollars, representing about thirty or forty per cent of the fair and equitable indebtedness of the French government to the United States for actual advances and a modest rate of accrued interest, which must be satisfactorily arranged."

Should we in this country undertake to finance European real justments, the obvious question is, when and how our investors are to receive their money back. This involves more than the question of attitudes and methods, future intentions and financial resources of the coming generations of Europeans.

Many of our American financiers are pointing out the mechanical difficulties involved in the paying of the war debts. Billions of dollars they tell us, can be paid only in goods and services, which must compete with American products. If we send over more billions of dollars, therefore, we are creating more competition for ourselves and for our future generation of Americans, for which we may be as much open to criticism as for other undesirable legacies of the Great War. This is a phase of European loaning which should be kept in mind.

Tire Covers To Boost The Cities

The favorable publicity for Albany-Decatur now has entered the automobile world.

The Morgan County Motor company has purchased a number of tire covers for distribution, the attractive covers having a picture of the new highway bridge across the Tennessee river at this point and the heading: "The Gateway to Alabama, Albany-Decatur."

The covers, used as they will be on automobiles over a wide territory, will do much to broadcast this favorable slogan of the Twin Cities: "The Gateway to Alabama."

Real Estate Bonds.
 678,000 To Feed.
 Royalty Is In The Blood.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

BEFORE the American construction council, in Cleveland, S. W. Straus, head of the biggest and oldest real estate bond house in America, made various suggestions that should interest investors and the public authorities.

Mr. Straus' company, in business for nearly fifty years, without loss of a dollar in principal or interest to any investor, has a record that only a few of the country's soundest financial concerns can equal. Many big railroads have reason to envy it.

It is therefore Mr. Straus' right to speak as an expert in real estate bond issues, and his demand for closer scrutiny of such issues, entitles him to the gratitude of all investors.

G. W. HINMAN, commenting on Mr. Straus' suggestions, says the public is buying real estate bonds at the rate of a billion a year and the total soon will be many billions.

THE enterprise in which Mr. Straus leads made possible the quick building of housing facilities, after the idle period of war. It also has brought many new bond houses into the field lacking of course, the long record of the S. W. Straus organizations.

The authorities should see to it that the suggestions made by Mr. Straus are carried out and that bonds offered to the public as safe, first mortgage real estate bonds are exactly that and nothing less.

MEANWHILE it should be remembered that S. W. Straus is entitled to public gratitude, first for giving the public safe investments with a good return.

THE French army, "much reduced for economy's sake" will number this year 678,000 men and 157,300 horses.

Germany, not allowed to keep a huge standing army, has her 678,000 men and 157,300 horses working for a living, building up Germany's new prosperity.

French taxpayers clothing and feeding the huge standing army, wonder why prosperity returns so slowly.

THE French army is more than 600,000 greater than ours. At $5 a day, a fair average now, our 600,000 men are earning nine hundred million dollars a year. The government and taxpayers are saving nine more hundred millions other dollars, and more than it would cost to feed, pay, dress and arm such a standing army.

We are fortunate, so is Germany.

THE Swedish prince, marries the Belgian princess, many women and children are injured in the crush.

Men have their reservations, sometimes chop off his head.

But the information for Albany, voluntary sell assassin before it, remains in the blood.

You see it at the royal marriage in Brussels, and along the railroad track on Queen Marie's American tour.

IT IS a deep emotion, in man and animal nature. Insects have it. Ship by express a queen and some worker bees with food insufficient for the journey, warning the package you find the queen fat, well cared for by the workers starving themselves to let the queen eat. It's part of nature's wisdom. Leaders were necessary and their care was important. The necessity has passed but the habit remains.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE does not approve the suggestion that one senate committee on foreign affairs meet at Ottawa. The council of British premiers, to discuss matters interesting both countries.

The president is right, this country should attend to its own business, here in the United States, and announce its decisions from here.

The Views of Others

THE PROPOSED CONSOLIDATION

Gadsden, Alabama City and Attalla are about to launch a movement which promises to make history in this state.

If the plans of the heads of the city government and leading men of the three cities do not miscarry, it may be announced to the world within the next few weeks that northern Alabama is to have a consolidated city which will take rank with the large cities of the South listed under towns of less than 100,000 population. The combined population will be close to 40,000.

As Dr. C. B. Forean, prominent citizen of Attalla, said in a recent interview in this newspaper, this move will put the three cities here ten years ahead in progress.

The heads of the governments of the three cities have been giving thought to this matter for months and discussing it, and sentiment in favor of definite action has been crystallizing in the minds of citizens rapidly.

It has become generally believed that no real obstacle stands in the way of effecting the consolidation, and it is proposed that the matter be brought to a head at once so that there may be time for such legislative action as may be required at the coming term at Montgomery.

Outstanding bond issues, rates of taxation, the amalgamation of the government, and all of the questions which would enter into the matter of consolidation have been under discussion in private and it is now proposed that these matters be threshed out in public with a view to calling an election and ascertaining the will of the people as soon as practicable.

The consolidation of the three cities has been in the minds of the people for years, probably dating back to the days of Captain J. M. Elliot, who made it the dream of his life, spent large sums from his private fortune and gave of that part of the highway which is in Morgan county until after the new commission goes into office.

Close upon the heels of a business letter you get an answer asking you what you mean by such-and-such a phrase. You don't remember what you said in your letter. Buy second sheets at the Daily office, know what you have said.

The Daily sells adding machine rolls at a small price.

Hope still is strong here that the state highway commission will let a contract soon for two additional miles of construction on the Muscle Shoals highway, between the present gravel road in Lawrence county and the Morgan county line. It is said the commission plans to do this work before leaving office.

There does not appear much likelihood, however, of the state letting a contract for construction

Is Bread and Water a Punishing Diet?

Here's a Scientific View of That Nebraska Judge's Idea of a Sentence.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States Senator from New York.
 Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HAVE you been as amused as I have over the stories of the Nebraska judge who sentenced his prisoners to a bread and water diet?

The judge had more printer's ink spilled in his behalf and in condemnation than anybody else up to the beginning of the political campaign. He has been pictured as a martinet, as a cruel monster, as well as a just and capable judge.

I am not interested in the recordings the man has had, or the witticisms passed at his expense. I am interested in the scientific aspects of the question involved.

Cruel and unusual punishments are prohibited by the Constitution of the United States. Is a sentence to a diet of bread and water for a week or ten days a "cruel and unusual" punishment?

It is unusual, it must be admitted, but, in my opinion, it is not cruel.

If I were a judge I wouldn't impose this sentence upon any prisoner at the bar. However, I am confident its execution will do no harm to a fairly abled-bodied person.

There are many well authenticated instances of total abstinence from food for periods of twenty-five to fifty days. My recollection is that Mayor McSweeney fasted for a longer period than this.

If life is preserved for so long a period without any food at all, why should we worry over the imposition of a short sentence imposing a daily diet of bread, plus all the good bread the stomach will hold?

If I could select the kind of bread, I would be willing to accept with complacency a diet of bread and water for a limited period. Modern diet over a period of twenty-six months, which corresponds in the human from babyhood to old age.

Bread is indeed the staff of life. I wish we could get everybody to eat more bread, made of real flour, and enriched with good milk. Such bread is one of the very best of foods and should be found on every table.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a married woman of twenty. I have been married three years. My husband does not make enough for us to live on. When we first went into house-keeping, his income was all right. But now he cannot keep his job more than a week. He stays with his people and I stay at my mother's. He comes to see me very often and always says that he is going to work hard so that we can go back to house-keeping. But he has never made good on these promises. And what is more, he goes out riding with other women. Please advise me what to do. Do you think I ought to sue him for divorce? B. R. P.

Now more than ever, you ought to leave your mother's home and live with your husband—even if you can only afford a furnished room. Your husband needs you as an inspiration. You must give him some incentive to establish himself on a firm financial footing. You ought to realize that as long as he does not have to provide for you, just so long he will make promises without any great effort to keep them. If you made a cozy little home for him, he would be eager to keep it going. The very fact that he comes to see you so often is sufficient proof that he loves you and needs you. Don't fail him now.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young man in my teens and have been calling on a girl friend who has another beau, who is jealous of me. When she goes out with me he often gets angry. Please advise me whether I ought to stop calling on her and forget her. But I do love her. A. H. N.

A. H. N.: Surely you don't expect to win the girl you love without a battle? Her other suitor should merely speed you on rather than send you scurrying away and leaving a clear field to your rival. All of which is merely on the supposition that you are really in love with the girl. And I rather doubt that, since you are really too young to be deeply and lastingly in love. This is probably true of the girl as well. If she is not engaged to either of you, she has a perfect right to go out with as many young men as she likes.

Mrs. Blair Writes Of The Value To Be Found In Good Literature

Teacher Boosts Library Campaign In Appropriate Message Regarding The Use of Literature By People.

"A child's whole attitude toward life may be influenced by a book or story," was the theme of a message made public today by Mrs. J. E. Blair, well known and capable Albany teacher, who has taken an interest in the campaign launched over the Albany school system looking toward the establishment of a library corner which may later become a community library.

Writing under the heading "The value of Good Literature," Mrs. Blair declares: "The week of November 15 to 20 is American Book week, which fact calls to mind the value of good literature."

"We are told we become like our thoughts, rather we are subconsciously our thoughts and are always 'spelling out' ourselves to the world in our actions, hence it is polish we want, not veneer."

"Some psychologists teach we are influenced more by our environment than our heredity; we cannot always associate personality with the masters of thought, but we can read after them, imbibe their teachings and lead nobler lives because we have read good literature. Thought is father to the act; cheap reading thus leads to cheap living."

"A child's whole attitude toward life may be influenced by a book or story, so we owe him the best influence obtainable through good literature. A correct attitude toward life, obtainable through good literature, is a richer heritage than a fortune of dollars and cents."

"A good book is an excellent companion."

"Beginning Monday an intensive campaign for increasing the efficiency of the Albany public school's library will be launched and it is hoped everyone will avail himself of this opportunity to raise the standing of our community—for—

Books are keys to wisdom's treasure;
Books are gates to lands of pleasure;
Books are paths that upward lead;
Books are friends; come, let read."

It is probable that the first report of the success of the drive will be made known Wednesday, canvassing of school children being completed Tuesday.

The slogan "A mile of pennies," equivalent to $850, will ring throughout the city during the remaining days of the week as 100 workers, boys and girls, go to the various homes asking for a contribution to the fund. Leaders have dreamed this to

Bill Grimm's Progress
H.C. WITWER

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. P. Putnam Sons
'Bill Grimm's Progress' is a picturization by Film Booking Office of America, Inc. (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Bill Grimm, hailing from schickery Fairfax Falls, becomes the heavyweight sensation of the country under the tutelage of Butch Ford, Bill's bugaboo is Jack Fairfax, a dissolute scion of wealth who is constantly seeking Bill's downfall. Carlton Herne, an enthusiastic millionaire, is in love with Pansy Pilkington, Bill's girl friend. Bill's friend, Barbara, is Bill's sweetheart and "good influence."

One night me and Barbara stepped out to one of Herne's supper parties for Pansy after she'd done her chores in the show. When the crockery had been cleared away and we was down to dancing, watching the cabaret and the out-of-town buyers viewing our famous party with awe, Pansy made the fatal crack.
"Carl," she murmurs with a murderously promoting glance at the lovely millionaire, "do you know what I'd love to be?"
He missed out as a guesser.
"I'd love to be a movie star," says Pansy, point blank.
"Well, Pansy, I see no reason on earth why your ambition should not be realized," says Herne. "You were in pictures once, were you not?"
"Yes and no," laughs Pansy. "I was an extra—na enter—with others at one stage of my battle with New York. But that was nip of the clicking camera has given me a fearful thirst for more. Bill should remember that—he worked in a picture with me, also as a super."
"Hush your mouth," I growl. "I been trying to live that down. Anyways, they took me out of the

"By Jove, what a picture combination that would make today!" movie and put in a title instead.
"Why, I never knew that," exclaims Herne. All at once he smacks the table with his hand.
"By Jove, what a picture combination that would make today!" Pansy Pilkington and Bill Grimm—the star of the Follies and the man the champion is afraid to fight!
I looked up to find both Barbara and Pansy staring at me—and, oh, what a difference there was in their expressions!
"That team in a film production would be an unbeatable box-office attraction," goes on Herne, all hopped up about his thought and not noticing nothing. "I say—how would you like to try it?"
"We'll be twin stars, big boy!" cried Pansy, suddenly reaching over the table and clapping my hand.
Being a woman, Pansy read my hesitation like you read a bill-board. She glanced like a little imp from me to Barbara and then shook her finger at my fiancée.
"Bill is simply waiting for you to yes him, Barbara," she smiles. "Come on, be sport. You needn't be afraid that I'll steal him—I'm sure you've got him hobbled, bound and chained."
"It is refreshing to know that at last you are sure," comes back Barbara, smiling, too, but fit to be tied.
"But, really, I hadn't considered that phase of the matter. I'm naturally interested in Bill's future. I want to see him hitch his wagon to a star, but not necessarily a movie star. Frankly, I'm opposed to Bill's going into pictures, not because I fear for his constancy, but because he isn't an actor and would soon tire of it. I want to make him a synthetic one."
To put the finishing touch on a horrible night, on the way down the stairs me and Barbara is staggered by a car. The car is run full tilt into Jack Fairfax. He couldn't miss hearing Barbara riding me, and the look of delight on his pain made me want to bury my fist to the hilt in it.
Well, lads and lassies, Herne lost no time getting the machinery turning over for foisting me and Pansy on a long-suffering motion picture public. My millionaire buddy became a hundred horsepower go-getter overnight. Studio space was rented at one of the big Long Island film distilleries, a slightly goofy director was hired and the story bought.
The scenario sported the high-sounding title of "The Fighting Lovers," and it was the dizziest collection of hokum either you, me or anybody else ever laid a eye on.
One of my first acts was to create parts in this frolic for sutch, Left Hook O'Brien and Shifty Jones, my handlers.
But I want to say to you this afternoon that not even the comforting presence of these boys could kill off my swiftly growing dislike of being in the movies. Barbara called the turn—I was satisfied I was no actor, and I hadn't the suspicion of craving to be one. I felt I was being made to look like a fool when cheaply hired professional daredevils disguised to look like me risked their lives to do the desperate stunts I'd be credited with in the picture. All I was actually doing was appearing in a endless series of close-ups with Pansy, which daily kept insisting that her part be built up more and mine be cut down.
While all this was taking place Barbara treated me like I was polio ivy. When I did manage to slip away from the studio to see how matters was going at my tea parlor she got busy with the girls or the customers the minute I drained the threshold of the door. At nights she was generally "too fatigued" to give me the boon of an interview. When she did it was like calling on your older sister. My nerves was shot to pieces between that and the opium dream I was appearing in.
Butch Ford, Left Hook O'Brien and Shifty Jones was about the only ones which was thoroughly enjoying themselves as actors. They wasn't getting much money, but they could laugh out loud.
Jack Fairfax made his peace with Carlton Herne, humbly apologizing for the manner in which Pansy figured which caused Herne to cry Fairfax the air. Herne, a big clean kid, was a colander when it come to holding grudges. So Fairfax begin acting around the set where me and Pansy was working, careful to cheer Pansy's acting and agree with Herne in everything. Trying to get rid of him was the first thing to get rid of asthma. Him

The Sensation of the Day In Proprietary Medicine

Only a few years ago it was being made by the originator in his home kitchen, now manufactured in one of the largest laboratories in the United States, and being sold in car load lots from the Lakes to the Gulf at the rate of over a million bottles yearly.

Hundreds have testified that they suffered for years with constipation, indigestion, gas on stomach, coated tongue, no appetite, no vitality, and a general run-down condition, but by the aid of this marvelous cleanser, eliminating the poisonous waste matter from the system through its free action on the bowels, they now owe their good health to same and once more enjoy hearty meals without any ill effect and no longer suffer with the most common ailment of the day—constipation.

This medicine is out-selling any other preparation on the market where it is known. More than a million under absolute guarantee to give beneficial results—and less than a dozen bottles returned—a record never before established by any other medicine. Every family naturally takes a laxative, as every Nature's most effective tonic laxative and system purifier. Can be given to children same as adults. Mild, pleasant, yet very effective.

Get the original and genuine as shown above and we guarantee beneficial results. Now sold by leading druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere.

Seven Crimson Stars Will Play Their Last Game Thanksgiving

Wallace Wade Is Confronted With A Task Similar To That He Met On Last Season Graduations.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 15.—There remains for seven very prominent members of Alabama's football team only one football game to be played for their Alma Mater, the Georgia game on Thanksgiving day.

For when the whistle shrieks out the end of the Alabama-Georgia clash on Turkey Day, it will also sound out the final call to Captain Barnes, Jimmy Johnson, Dave Rosenfeld, Hurschel Caldwell, Ben Enis, "Wu" Winslett and "Cape" Perry. With one exception all are regulars, but even that exception has been a valuable reserve of the Tide for three years.

Perhaps there is some consolation in the fact that all are "full-time" men. By that is meant that is meant that each one has played his quota of years allowed under Southern Conference rules, three years of varsity football within five years. Four of these men are five-year men but three are four-year men. But it is a staggering loss, one to be felt just as keenly as was felt the loss last season of Hubert, Gillis, Brown, Buckler, Jones and Hudson.

One could take those four backs that are soon to be listed among the heroes of the past as formidable a backfield as one could ask for under normal conditions with every one of the four in good shape. Barnes is truly one of the outstanding backs in Dixie today and was also one of the classiest last season. He is a triple-threat artist in every respect. Rosenfeld and Johnson have both been troubled with injuries throughout their career at the Capstone but were able to play enough each season to earn letters. And Caldwell is a great back. He is the greatest defensive back on the team today and compares very favorably with Hubert and Batty, other great defensive backs of other years.

Their loss leaves Wallace Wade in much the same fix that he was left in last year when Hubert, Mack Brown and Giles departed together. But again like last year he has several sophomore performers and reserves who should fill the breach to some extent next season, Archie Taylor, Red Brown, Melvin Vines, Earl Smith, Rip Reverra, Dick Hammer and Harry Holder.

There is some consolation about the line in that six men who have played most of the time this season are expected back. Those are Holmes, regular center; Pickard, regular tackle; Hagler and Pearce, regular guards and the latter a reserve center, and Bodwin and Payne, two hefty guards or tackles, as the necessity demands. In other words, development of a pair of ends seems the task for next year.

But next year is a long way off and the Georgia game is not so far from today. The Tidesmen look for the strongest opposition of the year from the Georgians on Thanksgiving day. Their desire for a victory can easily be seen from the fact that athletic authorities at Athens predict confidently that more than 1,000 native sons will be in Birmingham on that certain Thursday for the game. And people don't travel a long distance unless they believe their team has a chance of victory.

The Alabama-Georgia game should attract the largest crowd of the season in Birmingham. Advance ticket sale has reduced the number of very good seats, really seats just on the end of the field, to a very bare minimum. Orders are pouring in daily for tickets and it is estimated in a very conservative way, that approximately 15,000 fans will witness the struggle between the two teams.

All things considered equal, Alabama will not have much of an edge on the Bulldogs. The Athletians have an erratic season, but seem now to be traveling at their best pace and are making no secret of their desire to wallop Alabama in order to make the season a complete success.

Falkville Is Hunting Game

Coach Garrison of the Falkville Hi school mentor squad was here Saturday with somewhat of a troubled brow. "Only a few days left," Coach Garrison explained, "and Falkville is without opposition for Thanksgiving day." Garrison spoke of negotiations with Decatur Hi, the game to be played here, or there, but no conclusion had been reached.

CRIMSON EASILY IN TITLE STRIDE

Seven Conference Victories Are Credited Tide

With little chance of heading them off the Crimson Tide of Alabama today stands head and shoulders above any other team in the Southern conference.

The following compilation of team standings shows the relative standing through the past week-end:

Evans Sees Tide Travel To Coast

Billy Evans who has written a thing or two in sports, sees the Crimson Tide traveling west again this year, provided they trample the Georgia Bulldogs with the same effect applied on Thanksgiving last year. That of course remains to be seen, but Evans logic is this: The west coast has lots of pride, that pride was cast down last year when the Crimson played the most spectacular game of the season to defeat the University of Washington Huskies, the west wants a chance at redemption and if Alabama is in the running then of course that redemption would be excellent if gained against the same team which wrote finis to a beautiful Washington record.

Alabama has already turned down an offer from Lafayette to play at Philadelphia at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds.

RHEUMATISM STOPPED OFTEN IN ONE DAY

Mrs. Dan Richards Finds Remarkable Way to Stop Rheumatic Pains in One Day.

Rheumatism, Neuritis, and that terrible suffering caused by stiff lame joints and muscles need not be dreaded any longer since the discovery of Kurex Prescription. Now it is possible for those who are tortured with Rheumatism, and sleepless nights to overcome these troubles often in one day's time, is the remarkable statement of one who has used the treatment. This amazing prescription is bringing renewed health and freedom from dread Rheumatism to thousands where everything else has failed.

Mrs. Dan Richards, Gold Hill, Ore., writes, June 5, 1926: "I received your medicine and it is doing wonders for me. I am telling everyone about it. They all say that I am so much better, and I know that I am. I wish that everyone could know of this medicine. I shall tell every one I see about it. Wishing you the best of luck in making everyone well and happy."

This wonderful prescription prepared by a large laboratory and generally known as Kurex, is easily used at home and seems to work like magic in its rapidity on people of all ages and sexes.

No matter what your age or occupation, no matter what you have tried, if you are suffering from Rheumatism, Neuritis or stiff joints we are so confident Kurex Prescription will stop it that we offer to send a large treatment for only $2.00 on 10 days' trial. If the results are not satisfactory and you are not more than pleased in every way, it costs you nothing.

Send no money—just your name and address to R. A. Harman, Suite 412 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo., and the treatment will be mailed at once. Simply pay postman $2.00 on arrival. Use it according to simple directions. If at the end of 10 days you are not showing "wonderful improvement" and freedom from Rheumatism your money will be refunded without question. This offer is fully guaranteed, so write to day and give this "remarkable prescription" a trial.—Adv.

Predictions Are Like Automobile On Cold Morning—Hits and Misses

The Senator from Alabama rises to a point of order and announces that the "I told you so's" have it. Last Friday when this prediction racket got away to a start the I-Told-you-so clan was very much in evidence, in fact the predictor was to be found in that classification of ancient lodge members. The predictor predicted along with his predictions that the predictions didn't.

At any rate the columnist felt that guesses were futile, he expected that at least 60 per cent would go wrong. Last week marked the peak on football endeavors the nation over and it took more than an ordinary amount of intelligence to break into the futures. Instead of the fall by 60 per cent things went the other way, the columnist missed around 40 per cent. To be exact the guessing neared 63 per cent correct.

Here's the way the thing went:

South
Alabama 49, Florida 0.
Marquette 19, Auburn 13.
Georgia 14, Ga. Tech 13.
Kentucky 9, V. M. I. 10.

That's had enough, but not so bad as might have been, as the one lung pug says when he is kayoed in the second instead of the first. There is one consolation about this guessing game, it's pretty nearly ended. A few more hard guesses and the thud of the pigskin will not worry scribes again this year.

Watch your frail puny child grow strong, Take on weight

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamed of—these wonderful flesh making tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will start to help any weak, thin, under-nourished little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it. They do put on flesh.

Ask Caddell Drug Co., or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—as easy to take as candy and not at all expensive—60 tablets 60 cents.

Insist on McCoy's the original and genuine, and give the child a chance for 30 days. If you aren't delighted with results just get your money back. Adv.

Is Your Printing Working FOR or against you?

Your business reputation is made up entirely of impressions—what others think of you—and largely of FIRST impressions. First impressions lodge deeply; they're hard to change.

Many first impressions are formed by the printed material you use—your letterheads, envelopes, statements, direct mail advertising, etc. Good impressions if the printing is well done. Otherwise bad impressions.

Don't spend money to injure your own business. Insist on printing that builds good will. It is better to foot the bill for good-will-building printing than to foot the bill for stagnant business.

We print for the business man who demands that his printing be loyal to his business.

Ryan's X Roads Here On Friday

Ryan's X Roads, just beginning scholastic activity in grid circles will be here Friday afternoon for a rumput with Albany Hi school. The Ryan folks pressed the local for a game over a long period of weeks until finally the local team decided to take them on, only a few days before the Morgan County Hi tilt to be played at Hartsville on Thanksgiving.

The Ryan's team will look very familiar to local people this year, donned in the outfits worn last year by the Y. M. C. A. Independents. The Ryan people bought the uniforms at the time the team disbanded.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
